I. ACADEMIC PROCESSES

1. What types of qualification degrees are granted at the Kaunas University of Technology (hereinafter – University)?

   Bachelor‘s degree, Master‘s degree, Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree, doctoral degree.

2. How many study cycles are there in the University?

   University offers three study cycles:

   - First Study Cycle – major or bachelor’s studies.
   - Second Study Cycle – master’s studies.
   - Third Study Cycle – doctoral studies.

   The University also offers non-degree professional studies aimed at acquiring a professional qualification, as well as supplementary studies that provide the right to enroll in a master’s program in the relevant field of study.

   Including integrated studies, there are a total of 7 different types of studies at the University.

3. What are integrated studies?

   Integrated studies include both the first (bachelor’s) and second (master’s) cycles. They admit individuals who have completed secondary education, passed the entrance exam, and meet other University requirements. KTU offers one integrated study program – Architecture, which comprises 300 ECTS credits and has a duration of 5 years. The program concludes with a master’s final project, and graduates are awarded a master’s degree, granting the right to pursue professional practice and/or continue studies at the doctoral level.

4. What are the forms of studies available at the University?

   Full-time studies – the main form of degree and non-degree (professional pedagogical) studies. A standard full-time study workload is 60 credits, but no less than 45 credits per year.

   Part-time studies – the study form that provides a possibility to study at a slower pace. Workload of one year of part-time studies can be less than 45 study credits, but total duration of studies cannot be one and a half times longer than duration of full-time studies, applying a rate of 60 study credits to full-time studies.

5. What is a study program?

   Study program is comprised of study modules that are mandatory to be completed and assessed during studies.

6. What types of study programs are available at the University?

   - Degree studies – comprised of study modules that are mandatory to be completed and assessed to be awarded a diploma of a qualification degree.
   - Non-degree studies – provided for acquisition of qualification and for training for individual practice.

7. What is a study credit?

   Study credit is a unit for assessing study results and student’s working time. 1,600 hours of one year of studies correspond to 60 credits.

   - One study credit is equal to one credit of European credit transfer and accumulation system (ECTS).

8. What is the base number of credits according to ECTS per semester? Per academic year?

   Base number of credits per semester is 30 credits, per academic year – 60 credits.

9. What is a study module?

A study module is the basic unit of study planning, consisting of an independent study subject taught over one semester. Depending on its nature, a study module in a program can be compulsory, elective from a list of alternative study modules, or freely chosen from the University's list of study modules. Each module concludes with an assessment of the student's knowledge and skills – either an exam or another form of final evaluation.

10. Until when can individual study plans be adjusted?

Individual study plans can be adjusted during the first 2 weeks of the semester.

11. What does the individual study consist of?

The individual study plan must include all compulsory study modules of the chosen program, the specified number of alternative modules, and freely elective modules.

12. How should a student register for elective study modules?

Students register for freely elective study modules independently in the Academic Information System (hereinafter - AIS). If a student fails to register in time, they must contact the Faculty Study Center.

13. What are the attendance requirements for lectures?

All students must attend 100% of laboratory sessions, at least 80% of practical exercises, and at least 60% of theoretical lectures. However, the lecturer coordinating the module may set stricter attendance requirements, which are published in the module program in AIS and/or the Virtual Learning Environment "Moodle".

14. What alternatives can be included in the study program?

- Core field studies – an alternative in the study plan in which the student's study plan consists of foundational and other core field modules aimed at achieving the program's learning outcomes;
- Extended practice – a first-cycle semester-long professional practice lasting one or two semesters, covering 30 or 60 credits in total;
- Specializations (specified for a particular study program) – a set of specialization modules in the main field of study that enables the student to achieve learning outcomes within the same field of study or field group;
- BA+ interdisciplinary competencies – in first-cycle (bachelor's) programs;
- MA+ competencies – in second-cycle (master's) programs;
- Personal module set – a study program structure that allows selecting modules from a recommended list of freely elective modules across various study fields or competencies, or from all University modules.

15. What is BA+?

BA+ interdisciplinary competency is a set of first-cycle study modules totaling 18 or 30 credits, allowing students to gain additional competencies in another field (or group of fields). BA+ interdisciplinary competency blocks can be selected from a list of modules compiled by the University and can serve as an alternative in the study plan for specializations, a personal module set (PMS), or advanced courses in the main field of study. Each bachelor's program indicates whether the BA+ interdisciplinary competency model applies.

16. When and how does admission to BA+ take place?

BA+ competency selection is indicated in AIS. Students whose programs include the BA+ option are informed by a separate email about application deadlines and procedures.
In 4-year programs, competencies are chosen in the spring semester of the second year; in 3-year programs – in the spring semester of the first year. Students can select competencies taught in Lithuanian or English. A competency is conducted only if a viable student group forms and it fits the study schedule.

17. How do BA+ credits and module distributions change in the 3rd and 4th years of study?

In 3-year study programs, only the 18-credit BA+ option may be available – one module per semester in the 3rd, 4th, and 5th semesters. In 4-year study programs, two options may be available:

- 18-credit BA+ program: In this case, modules are taken one per semester in the 5th, 6th, and 7th semesters.
- 30-credit BA+ program: In this case, modules are taken in the following order: one module in the 5th semester, two modules in the 6th semester, and two modules in the 7th semester.

18. How does MA+ differ from BA+?

MA+ competency is a set of second-cycle study modules totaling 18 credits, allowing students to acquire additional competencies. Each master's program indicates whether the MA+ model applies. Students in these programs can choose between the field expert track or the interdisciplinary expert track, each consisting of three modules taken one per semester in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd semesters. Students in 1.5-year master's programs can also choose MA+ competencies and study them by paying per credit.

19. What information can students request from the lecturer during the first lecture?

- The module's objective;
- The intended learning outcomes;
- Lecturer's contact information and consultation hours;
- Module structure and organization (topics, assignments, schedule, how module sessions will be conducted);
- Requirements for participation in academic module activities;
- Module assessments and deadlines;
- Module grading strategy and evaluation criteria;
- Required learning materials and literature sources;
- Information about the module's Moodle course;
- Principles of academic integrity;
- How the module has been improved based on feedback from previous students.

20. Which law regulates the quality of science and studies?

Law on higher education and research of the republic of Lithuania.

21. Which document establishes the ethical and moral principles of the University community?

KTU Code of academic ethics.

22. When and for what reasons can an appeal be submitted?

An appeal regarding written decisions related to a student's assessment of study results or the evaluation of achieved study outcomes can be submitted no later than 3 working days after the assessment is published in AIS or the student is informed of the decision. Appeals may be submitted for:

- Violations of assessment procedures;
- Identification of technical errors;
- Breaches of academic ethics.

Appeals regarding other written decisions must be submitted no later than 10 working days from the date of the written decision.

23. When and for what reasons can a complaint be submitted?

Complaints must be submitted no later than 30 working days after it becomes clear that the student's rights or legitimate interests were violated due to the actions or inaction of a University employee, another student, a unit, committee, or another body operating within the University in the following areas:

- Ensuring the quality of studies;
- Compliance with study organization processes and procedures;
- Ensuring the quality of learning resources and learning environment;
- Compliance with the provisions of the Academic Ethics Code;
- Quality assurance and compliance with procedures for additional services such as financial support, accommodation, or leisure activities;

- Other cases.

24. What must a student do before submitting an appeal or complaint?

The student must familiarize themselves with the documents regulating the area where a violation may have occurred and any other relevant information, and if necessary, consult the Faculty Vice-Dean for Studies or a staff member of the Student Information Center (for third-cycle students – the Head of the International Doctoral School). If possible, it is recommended to first try to resolve the issue with the Faculty Student Representative for academic processes, the responsible unit staff or manager, or a representative of a committee or other University body.

25. How can a student change a lecturer?

The entire academic group must collect signatures on a joint request and submit it to the Faculty Dean. The request must clearly and reasonably state the reason for wanting to replace the lecturer. The final decision is made by the Faculty Dean.

26. What should a student do if they cannot attend lectures (or an exam)?

During the semester or exam session, a student who cannot attend module sessions and/or assessments due to excusable reasons recognized by the University must inform the Faculty Study Center on the same day of their absence. Upon returning to studies, the student must submit documents justifying the absence in AIS under the "Justification of Missed Sessions" section no later than 10 working days.

27. How long does an exam session last?

The exam session lasts 4 weeks.

28. When can a failed exam be retaken during the session?

A failed exam may be retaken no later than the end of the exam session.

29. When can an early (advance) exam be taken?

A student wishing to take an early exam must submit a request to the Faculty Study Center (for third-cycle students – to the Vice-Rector for Research) no later than the 5th day of the fourth month of the current semester (December or May), stating the reason and attaching a supporting document. The early final assessment may be taken with the permission of the Study Vice-Dean before the start of the exam session.

The student must have successfully completed all intermediate tasks of the module with passing grades and agreed with the module lecturer on taking the early final assessment. A failed early final assessment may be retaken during the exam session at the scheduled retake time.

30. Who can postpone assessments?

Module assessments may be postponed by the Faculty Dean (for third-cycle students – the Vice-Rector for Research) if a student is unable to participate in the assessment due to important excusable reasons recognized by the University, provided that the student submits a request along with documents proving the reason. Considering the reason, the assessment may be postponed no later than the end of the first month of the new semester.

Assessment after this deadline is only allowed with permission from the Study Vice-Rector (for third-cycle students – the Vice-Rector for Research). The student must submit a reasoned request with the Faculty Vice-Dean's endorsement (for third-cycle students – the Head of the Doctoral School).

Postponed assessments are considered equivalent to assessments taken on time.

31. How many times is it allowed to retake intermediate assignments and/or exams?

Intermediate tasks and/or exams may be retaken no more than twice:

- The first retake is free of charge;
- The second retake requires payment of a fee set by the Senate.

Exceptions apply if the first retake was missed due to excusable reasons.

For third-cycle (doctoral) students, only one retake is allowed.

32. When is it not allowed to retake an exam and/or complete an intermediate assignment?

Retakes are not permitted in the following cases:

- If the student previously attempted to complete the assessment dishonestly;
- If the student has received a formal reprimand from the Faculty Dean for systematic non-attendance;
- To improve a previously obtained passing grade. Exceptions apply if the University Dispute Resolution Committee accepts the student's appeal;
- A second retake is prohibited if the student either did not appear for the first retake without excusable reasons or received a failing grade (0–2).

33. When is it allowed to complete intermediate assignments during the exam session?

During the exam session, intermediate tasks may be completed within the first 3 weeks of the exam session, upon payment of the prescribed fee.

34. In which cases is a student not allowed to participate in the second retake?

A student may not participate in the second retake if, in the first retake they received a grade of 0–2, or they did not appear without important excusable reasons recognized by the University, or they failed to submit documents justifying their absence within the required time.

Additionally, if a student has not fulfilled the module participation requirements set by the lecturer, they are not allowed to participate in the second final retake.

| First assessment | First repeated assessment | Second repeated assessment |
|---|---|---|
| 0-4NT (justified/ unjustified) | 3-4 | ✓ |
| | NT (justified) | ✓ |
| | 0-2 | ✘ |
| | NT (unjustified) | ✘ |

35. When must payment for assessments be made, and how much does it cost?

A fee must be paid when a student participates in a second retake of any type of assessment. For an intermediate task, the fee is €30, while for an exam, the fee is €40. Payment can be made at the Faculty Study Center or by emailing the Faculty Study Center at (faculty_abbreviation@ktu.lt).

36. How is student progress determined?

A student's progress is assessed after the deadlines for module assessments in the semester, including retakes and postponed assessments. A student is considered not making progress if, at the end of the semester, they have at least one academic debt over the entire study period (not necessarily obtained in the current semester). An academic debt is defined as a failing final module grade (less than 5), a grade of NA ("Not Assessed") or NT ("Did Not Attend"). A student remains considered not making progress until a positive final module grade is received.

37. What happens if there are incomplete credits?

If a student has not completed intermediate module tasks, they must retake the module, updating their individual study plan accordingly. Retaken modules must be scheduled in the next available semester when the module is offered. The student must pay the current tuition fee for retaken modules.

If a student completed intermediate tasks but failed the final exam, they may take the exam externally no later than 2 years, after paying the prescribed fee. The grade for the external exam is considered the final module grade, regardless of previous intermediate task grades. External exams are taken in the next semester the module is offered.

At the Faculty of Medicine, a student considered not making progress who has accumulated more than 15 credits of academic debt over the entire study period loses state funding and may continue studies on a self-financed basis, paying the tuition fee set in their admission year.

38. What should a student do to repeat a course, and how much does it cost?

To retake a course, a student must submit a request to the Faculty Study Center. The student must pay the full University tuition fee for any retaken modules.

39. For what reasons is it allowed to temporarily suspend studies?

Temporary suspension of studies may occur for an academic leave or suspension of studies. A student should return in the same semester from which they left; however, if the study plan allows, they may return earlier. Academic leave is granted at the request of the student by the Faculty Dean (for third-cycle students – by the Rector or an authorized person).

Detailed conditions for study interruption are provided in the table below.

40. Who must return the study grant (tuition basket)?

Rotation is an annual process during which students are ranked based on their study results. Students studying in self-financed (VNF) places who perform best may move to state-funded (VF) places, while students who do not meet the criteria of a high-performing student may lose their VF place.

A high-performing student is defined as someone who:

- Has no academic debts;
- Has fulfilled all requirements set for the assessment period of the study program (participated in all exams and assessments);

16. What is the Lithuanian Students' Union (hereinafter – LSS)?

The LSS is a national, democratic, independent, and non-governmental organization representing the interests of students in Lithuania. The members of the LSS are the student self-governance organizations of Lithuanian higher education institutions. The highest governing body, which elects the LSS President every two years, is the Conference. The second main governing body of the organization is the Council, which consists of the LSS President and one representative from each member organization.

The current president of LSS is Ieva Vengrovskaja.

IV. LSIC (Lithuanian Students‘ Identity Card)

1. What is the Lithuanian Student Identity Card (hereinafter – LSIC)?

   The LSIC is an official document confirming a student’s status, which can be integrated free of charge with the European Student Identity Card (integration with transport cards is also available as an option). The LSIC is valid for the entire period of studies, and the production of the LSIC is handled by the Lithuanian Students’ Union.

2. What steps must be taken to order an LSIC?

   1) Register in the LSIC system;
   2) Upload a passport-style photo and a photo of an identity document;
   3) After the higher education institution submits study data, order the LSIC.

   The LSIC cannot be ordered if a person is enrolled in supplementary studies (auditor status) or studies at a vocational training center (pupil status).

3. When must the LSIC be returned?

   If, after completing or terminating studies, the LSIC has already expired or there are less than 3 weeks remaining until its expiration, the student does not need to return the LSIC. Otherwise, the student must return the LSIC to the student representation body or the LSS office. The return deadline is 2 weeks from the submission of the study termination request. After completion or termination of studies, the LSIC becomes inactive and may no longer be used; illegal use of the LSIC is subject to penalties.

4. What should be done if the LSIC is lost?

   1) In the LSIC system profile, indicate that the old LSIC has been lost;
   2) If the student does not wish to order a new card, complete an application form for termination of the lost LSIC’s validity and pay a €100 fine (the completed form and payment receipt must be sent to the student representation body of the higher education institution or by email to pagalba@lsp.lt). An exception applies if studies have been terminated and the LSIC was lost—in this case, no fine is charged.
   3) Otherwise, order a new card by paying the reissuance fee.

5. What should be done if the LSIC is stolen?

   1) Complete a notification form in the LSIC system to terminate the validity of the stolen LSIC;
   2) Obtain an extract from the police station regarding the stolen LSIC (without confirmation from the police, a new LSIC will not be issued);
   3) Send the completed notification and the police extract to the student representation body or by email to pagalba@lsp.lt.
   4) Order a new card in the LSIC system.

6. What do the different LSIC colors mean?

   A pink LSIC is issued to:

   - daytime study students;
   - full-time study students;
   - incoming students of partial studies.

   A green LSIC is issued to:

   - evening study students;
   - extended study students;
   - part-time (distance) study students.

7. When is it necessary to replace the LSIC?

   If personal data (e.g., surname) or the study programme changes, the old LSIC is considered invalid and must be returned, and a new LSIC must be ordered. Before ordering a new LSIC, the student must contact the higher education institution so that it updates the student’s data in the Student Register.

8. What should be done if, after an academic leave, the LSIC expires earlier than the end of studies?

It is not possible to extend the validity of an old LSIC; therefore, a new card must be ordered. Once the higher education institution updates the data on the end of studies, a new LSIC can be ordered.

9. What is the price of the LSIC?

- First-cycle (Bachelor's) studies – 20 €;
- Second-cycle (Master's) studies – 12 €;
- Integrated studies – 22 €;
- Third-cycle (Doctoral) studies – 20 €;
- Residency studies – 20 €;
- Short-cycle studies – 10 €;
- Pedagogical professional studies – 10 €;
- Incoming students of part-time studies – 10 €;

1. What is a Study Field Director (FSD)?

   The Study Field Director (FSD) is the chairperson of the Field Study Program Committee (FSPC), responsible for the implementation of the study field program and for ensuring the quality of the program and the achievement of its goals.
   The FSD reports directly to the head of the first-level unit and the University Study Programs Committee.

2. What are the main functions of the FSD?

   The FSD is responsible for:

   - Planning, organizing, monitoring, and evaluating the activities of the FSPC;
   - Assigning tasks to FSPC members and ensuring accountability of Committee members for their implementation;
   - Organizing periodic FSPC meetings on relevant study program implementation and development issues at least four times per academic year;
   - Maintaining continuous collaboration with the Faculty Study Committee (FSC), lecturers, students, alumni, and social partners.

3. What should I do if I cannot attend a FSPC meeting?

   FSPC members unable to attend a meeting must inform the FSPC chairperson by email no later than 1 working day before the meeting.

4. How are decisions made during FSPC meetings?

   A committee meeting is considered valid if more than 50% of the committee members participate. Decisions are made by a simple majority vote. If the votes are evenly split, the decision is made by the FSPC chairperson. When a meeting is held electronically, voting by email is valid only if the issue being voted on was previously discussed in the committee during an in-person meeting and does not require a secret ballot.

5. Are FSPC meetings open?

   FSPC meetings are open to the Faculty community, but the FSD may organize closed meetings if confidential issues are being discussed (e.g., regarding specific employees or companies).

6. When should I be informed about a FSPC meeting?

   FSPC members are informed about the meeting and agenda by email at least 3 working days before the meeting. FSPC members have the right to review materials and minutes related to the meeting.

7. To whom is the FSPC accountable?

   The FSD prepares the annual FSPC activity report together with Committee members and reports to the FSC and the Faculty Dean.

8. What are the rights of a FSPC member?

   - Receive necessary information from University academic and non-academic units regarding the study programs supervised by the FSPC;
   - Receive administrative support necessary for FSPC activities from University academic and non-academic units;
   - Review draft documents regulating studies at the University and submit suggestions for their improvement;
   - Provide suggestions to heads of academic units and study module lecturers regarding the improvement of their study modules;
   - Invite responsible University staff, social partners, or student representatives to FSPC meetings.

9. What are the duties of a FSPC member?

   - Actively participate in meetings, provide reasoned opinions, and perform assigned tasks timely and properly;
   - Recuse oneself from matters that may compromise objectivity, independence, or impartiality;
   - Protect confidential information entrusted to them.

10. What are the credit requirements for programs at different study levels?

    First-cycle (Bachelor) programs can be 180, 210, or 240 credits, of which:

    - At least 120 credits are typically allocated to achieve the learning outcomes of field-specific studies (including practical training and the preparation of the final thesis). The total volume of planned practical training must be at least 15 credits, and the final thesis and final exams must be allocated at least 15 credits;
    - Up to 120 credits may be allocated to University-mandated or student-selected modules (e.g., advanced courses in the same field, modules from another field, complementary field studies, pedagogical studies, additional practical training, digital skills, etc.).

    Second-cycle (Master) programs can be 90 or 120 credits, except for programs leading to a Master of Business Administration (MBA), which can have 60 credits, of which:

    - Field-specific courses that deliver the outcomes specified in the study field description must account for at least 60 credits, or at least 45 credits for an MBA;
    - The final thesis must be allocated at least 30 credits.

    Integrated programs can be 300 or 360 credits, of which:

    - Total credits for practical training must be at least 20 credits, unless otherwise specified in the field description;

    Second-cycle programs: at least 80% of Master's level lecturers must hold a scientific (or artistic) degree (be recognized artists). Others may be practitioners with at least 3 years of professional experience in applied subjects over the past 7 years. At least 20% of field-specific courses must be taught by lecturers holding a professorial position.

12. How can I report to students about FSPC activities?

    Students representing their own and their peers' opinions in the study program committees, like other representatives, are required to report on their activities to the students of their study program. This reporting can be done directly or indirectly.

    It is recommended to attend meetings organized by the Students' Association with faculty student leaders and students, and briefly present what has been accomplished regarding the specific study program.

    Additionally, at the end of each semester, a brief activity report for the semester should be submitted to the FSA representative.

13. How can a student representative collect student opinions on important issues?

    A student representative in the Field Study Program Committee (FSPC) must represent not only their personal opinion but also the position of all students in their program on various issues. To do this, the representative first needs to gather these opinions. Possible methods include:

    - Informal communication – speaking informally with classmates is the first essential step. Engaging with a wide circle of peers helps to understand opinions on issues related to study quality. These contacts also help when conducting deeper analyses, requesting responses to surveys, etc.;

- Questionnaires – the representative can prepare a survey and distribute it via student group leaders or using student contact information provided by the Students' Association;
- Focus groups – the representative can moderate focus groups (alone or with Students' Association support) to identify areas of improvement in the study program and clarify student opinions on how changes should be implemented. It is also recommended to attend roundtables, focus groups, or meetings organized by the Students' Association, or review protocols from these meetings if attendance is not possible.

14. How is study quality culture defined at the University?

- Student-centered approach – conducting studies that focus on students, creating a motivating learning environment, modern study spaces, innovative content, and teaching methods; using educational technologies and resources; sharing up-to-date knowledge, research findings, and practical experience.
- Communication and collaboration – fostering collaboration across academic, research, and industry areas; integrating theory and practice; leveraging experiences from both Lithuania and abroad.
- Support for faculty – providing appropriate work conditions and wellbeing, including psychological support and motivation; offering tools and guidance for teaching; supporting competence development and professional growth aligned with University goals.
- Engagement of internal and external stakeholders – ensuring participation and dialogue with all University stakeholders, including students, staff, and social partners, in University activities and initiatives.
- Continuous improvement – ongoing internal evaluation and analysis of study quality, including study programs, disciplines, research outcomes, faculty competence, feedback, and resources; using this as a foundation for measurable and significant improvements.
- Responsibility to society – accountability to students, staff, and social partners regarding University outcomes, transparency, academic integrity, and social responsibility toward people and the environment.
- Adopting best practices – sharing experiences and adopting best practices through cooperation with other universities, businesses, and public sector organizations.
